THE MONA MINING STOCK.

It is on the Market at 10 Cents a Share—Non Assessable.

The history of Colorado mining is an interesting history. Within a period of twenty-six years it has produced over $250,000,000 in silver alone. The output in 1890 had reached $20,000,000, and in 1891 it was over twenty-two million. About ninety per cent. of legitimate mining companies' stocks have advanced in value. In some instances the rise is most remarkable. For example, the Mollie Gibson stock sold in 1890 at 15 cents a share, and in 1892 it was worth $11 a share. The Boulder Company, in the same period from $4 a share to $19.50; the Delta, from $1 to $15, and the Aspen Contact went from 25 cents to $4.50. Many fortunes have been made in these stocks, while others gained as much in proportion to their stock.

Fifteen dollars invested in Mollie Gibson stock two years ago at 15 cents a share is now worth $1100, or $11 a share.

These mines are usually developed by men who are in moderate circumstances and the expenses of opening them are paid by the sale of stock at low figures.

The Mollie Gibson was thus opened, as were many others in this way, and those who risked small amounts for stock are receiving marvelous returns. What has been done is now being done, and will continue to be done again and again.

Two mines on Sugar Loaf Mountain, in Boulder county—the "Smoky Hill" and the "Mines' Dream" were opened this way, and are now so valuable that to stock it for sale. Just between these mines and joining the claims they are on, and within fifteen hundred feet of the mines themselves lie the property of the Edna Mining and Milling company.

The company was organized last November, and began operations on the claim.

They have reached a depth of nearly 100 feet, and the ore taken out has averaged from $10 to $20 in gold per ton, with a gradual increase of silver from 10 to 100 ounces per ton. This company is now selling stock at 10 cents a share, not less than 100 shares to one person. The Republican mentioned yesterday that W. G.

Nagely, the secretary of the company, was in Decatur yesterday. He will be here again next week, and will display the ore taken from the mines, and will be prepared to answer all questions those desiring information with a view to purchasing stock may want. A little money will secure a block of this stock. It will not break you on it, it is non-assessable, and it may make you lots of money.
